IJELE INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF THE SOCIETY FOR IGBO STUDIES
(IIJSIS)
Published by the Society for Igbo Studies

DESCRIPTION

Ijele International Journal of the Society for Igbo Studies is devoted to all areas of Igbo studies. Its aim is to present work of current interest in all areas of language, literature and culture. The journal does not favour any particular linguistic theories or scientific trends. Scientific quality and scholarly standing are the main criteria applied in the selection of articles accepted for publication. IIJSIS publishes papers of not less than 6000 words in length. Articles could be written in Igbo or in English. When articles are written in Igbo, the abstract must be translated to English. If written in English, the abstract must be translated to Igbo. This policy is to make the journal appealing to the non-Igbo readers and promote the Igbo language, literature and culture in the global space.
